SELWYN entering the library: What a happy mother I am, that my children prefer the society of patriarchs and prophets to that of the giddy throng, who seek only for amusement. We closed last evening with the translation of Enoch. He was the great-grandfather of Noah. For a time the descendants of Seth seem to have been worthy of being called the sons of God; but by associating with the race of Cain, and taking their daughters--here called the daughters of men--for wives, they were led into great wickedness, and the whole earth became corrupt. Susie. How plainly this shows the danger from evil associates, and from bringing into a family one who has no fear of God. Jennie. It shows, also, the power of woman: that the mother has more influence over children than the father. It was the daughters that led these people into sin. They not only enticed their husbands, but they let the little ones have their own way, and do all the evil they chose. Edward. Strange that all became wicked but Noah; but some may have been taken away from the evil to come. Mrs. S. Noah was a-preacher of righteousness for one hundred and twenty years. He declared the anger of God against sin, and that all who would not accept the refuge which he was commanded to prepare, would be swept away by...
