A Song in the Night Season is unique for the following reasons: The reader has a message within a message. First the reader is enlightened through the topic by a combined scripture messages. Each combined scripture message is supported with the author s interpretation or explanation. Each poetic message concludes the combined scripture message. Each chapter is a lesson on salvation and spiritual growth, which is the name and interpretation of the author s first book, composed in the Textbook Collection, named Salvation and Spiritual Growth, a series of three textbooks. A Song in the Night Season can therefore be used as a collection of messages or sermons to be used by the teacher or speaker of the hour, or used as a guide for a novice speaker. Each chapter consist of a complete message or sermon, beginning with a theme, a topic, an introduction, accompanied with the message in text, which concludes with a summary in poem as well as in written thought, with all components supporting the lesson or sermon topic.
