A7656 2009c OCLC Number: (OCOLOC)608683296 Subject: Nation-building -- Afghanistan. Excerpt: . . . 11 we all knew what that was going to mean with regard to Afghani-stan, and some pretty strong statements were made about fol-low-ing through after a military operation. What is our moral re-sponsibility to the Afghan people in all of this General McCaffrey, we will begin with you. General M C. Well, one is always tempted to go back to C AFFREY former Secretary Powells statement that if you break it, you own it. I must admit, I have never entirely bought that policy. I think there are points in time in foreign policy where we intervene for our own purpose and dont pick up the follow-on implied responsi-bility of turning the place into Switzerland. Nonetheless, here we are 600 miles from the sea, 32 million Af-ghans, this giant, wild country, much of it rooted in the 14th cen-tury. We have made promises, explicit and implied, and something that greatly bothers me in the current debate, the notion that we are there and cant stay unless we appreciate the nature of the chief of state bothers me. We are there for U. S. national interest reasons, not because Karzai is corrupt, good, bad, or whatever. But there is no question in my mind as we look at the situation now, we have told the region, our NATO partners and the Afghan people, we are going to try to create a situation where you wont be an international pariah, where your agricultural system and your road network and the fundamentals of health care will work, and we will then...
