The juvenile court might, likewise, have greater supervision over the question of placing-out, so that societies which at present attend to this might have their hands strengthened and the deficiencies of the present system be reduced to a minimum. With regard to the cases of delinquent children the juvenile courts should have exclusive jurisdiction over them and the action of the court should be helped by proper and co-operative action by parole and truant officers. Board of Charities Committee on Child Welfare The present condition of affairs in regard to the problem of child welfare shows the importance and desirability of establishing at this time a separate committee on child welfare by the Board of Public Charities, similar to the present Committee on Lunacy. Homes for the immediate reception of children who need immediate care are urgently needed. The various juvenile courts of the Commonwealth, and the various poor law officials in the different poor law jurisdictions should be given power authoritatively to turn over children who are in need of support to the committee on child welfare. It should be given power properly to provide for the care and supervision of the children, using for this purpose all the various existing facilities, such as the Children s Aid Societies, the children s homes,...
