Yet the wise man tells us that to spare restraint is to hate the child. Practically it is so. And the disobedient, self-willed children and youth who are growing up with a contempt for parental wishes, may possibly live to see that it had been better for themselves as well as for others, if they had been compelled in childhood to yield their own wills to the will of a wise and affectionate parent. Finally, let all, whether parents or children, young or old, remember that it is true of this and of every other command of the Bible, as is expressly declared concerning the third commandment, that the Lord will not hold him guiltless who transgresseth. His laws are something more than good advice which may be neglected with impunity. Let us neither hope nor fear under His government, mild and parental as it is, any of the weaknesses of an overfond father. God cannot be deceived, and He will not be mocked. SERMON VI. THE SIXTH COMMANDMENT. EXODUS 20: 13. r THOU SHALT NOT KILL. This commandment at least, have I kept from my youth up, I seem to hear one and another of my hearers exclaim. And yet the Apostle John says, He that hateth his brother is a murderer; and the Saviour, commenting upon this very commandment, speaks of him that hateth his brother without a cause, as transgressing its spirit, though he offend not against the...
